Elliott Crescent Hastings mostly likely named in his honour
As a curate in All Saints he was expected to ride a bicycle, but one Sunday he interrupted his sermon to say he wanted to get an illustration. With that he wheeled his pushbike from the baptistery up to the front, lent it against the pulpit and announced, 'my text today is "Well done thou good and faithful servant."' In a few weeks, he had a car.
Known in Pongaroa for towing a trailer behind his car to collect bottles and sheep dags for parish funds.
He would milk cows for sick dairy farmers in his parishes and very practical for example arranging the district to help a wife run the farm when her husband walked out on her.
It is said that one Easter weekend he had his family lay concrete at the vicarage while he took services and helped in between.
[I remember him coming to a family baptism and blessing us at the end "May the Lord bless those you love and those you find it hard to love." A typical blessing of service chaplains. RAB]

NOTES

JOHN ALBERT FENTON was from a junior line of landed-gentry family and is not found in Burke; he claimed that many of his old Yorkshire family rest under Sheffield parish church SS Peter & Paul [the subsequent diocese of Sheffield made this (1914) the cathedral]
His brother FRANCIS HENRY FENTON was a leading supporter of the incipient Anglican community in Dunedin and thus its priest JA FENTON; he was principal collector of subscriptions for 'Otago Episcopal Church, school, and parsonage fund' (Lyttelton Times) – full details of items sought for the church (linen, bell, organ), and names of donors and the amount subscribed provided, a long list and first on the list is the Bishop of Guiana [William Piercy AUSTIN], all people willing to support the laity and the priest FENTON in Otago (The Times) ;

18 Jan 1879 reported that 'has forsaken his pulpit and gone over to that of the Episcopalians… itinerant system of Wesleyan Methodist distasteful and inconvenient to him … a lame excuse .. [but his opinions on evolution have] 'made it too hot for him .. evolution and orthodoxy are hostile to each other, they have no affinities. … he is on the same sheet of ice on which the Revd Joe BARKER [1806-1875 English preacher and controversialist] glided by imperceptible stages to rank infidelity … neither an eloquent nor an attractive pulpit orator. His success lies in the novelty of his views and his great powers of analogy… worthless as an evangelist … The laboratory and pulpit of [the Revd Joseph, Unitarian Rationalist] PRIESTLEY would square better with his philosophy than the Anglican Church … the beginning of the end. Hoped that Bishop Nevill will withhold the imposition of hands' (5;23 Jan 1879 Queanbeyan Age NSW)

He was a heavy smoker and the Ven Michael BENT (when with Anglican Board of Missions) recalls visiting him in Woburn home and being told something he wished to publish had been burnt because a match hadn't died before being thrown into his rubbish.
I recall seeing his funeral director's record in the S Mary burial book while I was in Waipukuaru. (RAB)

16 Feb 1925 before the magistrate, two charges of having indecently assaulted two boys, aged 10 and 7 respectively. Accused … pleaded guilty and was admitted to the Supreme Court for sentence (Evening Post). The accused did not attempt to harm the boys, and indicated that he had been committing offences of this nature for some time past.
21 Mar 1925 after the offence committed in the Woodhaugh Gardens when he gave two boys lollies, 'He was admitted to five years' probation, a condition being that he entered a mental hospital as a 'voluntary' patient and remained until discharged by the superintendent. Medical opinion was that he was not of unsound mind so as to be committed. The Judge [Mr Justice SIM] expressed the opinion that he was on the 'border-line'. So is any other man who is so sexually filthy as to do what this 'Reverend' gent did; but if any other man is not insane enough to be committed to an asylum, in such circumstances, he is sent to gaol …' New Zealand Truth

Note: REGINALD was central in a spiritualist group at Havelock which became 'the Society of the Southern Cross'; Fr James Charles FitzGERALD CR met with them during the (1910) Mission of Hope to New Zealand, and provided his support. In 1912 Dr Robert FELKIN a Chief of the Order of the Stella Matutina and inspector of the Societas Rosicruciana (Rosicrucians) for Australasia arrived; a home for the order was constructed, 'Whare Ra' [House of the Sun] designed by major Wellington architect CHAPMAN TAYLOR; WW SEDGWICK bishop of Waiapū and later W PANAPA the bishop of Aotearoa were members. At its peak ca 1926 the order had a total of 300 members; GARDINER and Dr Robert William FELKIN were both vestry members at S Luke Havelock North. The vicar through that period was Kenneth Edward MACLEAN. FELKIN had spent a spiritual retreat in 1903 at Mirfield after the death of his first wife. NOTE ON TABERNACLES

Early 1950s at the request of Fr GAULT a new reredos and tester designed by architect Don DONNITHORNE were installed behind the high altar with a new tabernacle set on the gradine in the centre of the reredos between the six candlesticks. AK WARREN as bishop of Christchurch ordered the removal of the tabernacle and the parish priest mounted it on the north wall of the Pilgrims' chapel, and had set in the vacant place where the tabernacle once stood on the high altar a large red Chi Rho [ancient symbol of Christ] with a brass plate which stated, 'This tabernacle was removed by the order of the Lord Bishop of this diocese, Pray for the peace of Jerusalem'. On observing them when at the altar for a Confirmation, the bishop of Christchurch ordered the removal of the Chi Rho and the brass-plate, and C GAULT publicly apologised for his actions.

1963 on retirement of C GAULT as parish priest Christchurch S Michael, WARREN ordered the removal of the tabernacle from the church; it was accepted by JC VOCKLER bishop in Polynesia for the cathedral in Fiji [2000 not found in use there]

2012 A later successor the Revd PO WILLIAMS just before retirement set a tabernacle again on the high altar. 2022 The wakahuia damaged in the 2011 Canterbury earthquake was repaired and has replaced it. The tabernacle is now in the sacristy where it holds the 'holy oils'.

For a more serious but similar conflict, see the entry for ALLERTON, ARTHUR RUSSELL. Episcopal hostility to tabernacles continued.

About 1976 a tabernacle (purchased in London through the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament and donated by (the Revd) Des BRITTEN (SSC) then churchwarden) was installed on the south wall of the sanctuary of S Barnabas Roseneath Wellington; the bishop of Wellington EK NORMAN allowed the tabernacle to remain (1978) only on condition that I did not have it set in the familiar central place upon the altar.

1981 The British High Commissioner Sir Richard STRATTON expressed to the bishop of Wellington his great surprise at this restriction, for he had never worshipped in London at a church which did not have the tabernacle on the high altar. However, NORMAN was now able to claim (not without a hint of whimsy) that this installation on a side wall was in accord with the liturgical guidelines issued after the Second Vatican Council. (MWB)

Personal comment
Bishop GERARD told me that some years previous he had taken the service for the regional Boys Scouts, and he considered it had been soundly Catholic in word and action ('I am a Catholic'), but the leader of the Goldthorpe scouts came afterwards to ask him when were they having mass. 'He assured me "That were a nice service but we were expecting we would have mass".' In the 1950s the liturgy at Goldthorpe was only and fully Roman rite and as the Book of Common Prayer rite was very different, the scouts were puzzled by this 'Holy Communion Service'. GERARD was clearly delighted to be able to tell me of this encounter and his courteous apology to the Goldthorpe boy scouts for their disappointment at not having a proper mass. Note

31 Jul 1856 royal letters patent issued: HARPER as bishop of Christchurch was stated to be subject to the see of Canterbury and to the bishop of Sydney as his metropolitan

25 May 1857 in a court case, Regina vs Provost and Fellows of Eton College and the Revd John Alexander CLARKE [HARPER's successor as vicar of Stratfield Mortimer, appointed by Eton patron of the living], the Lord Chief Justice CAMPBELL ruled that a bishop appointed for a colonial see had no connexion in law with the church of England - her Majesty's patent was 'not worth the parchment upon which it is written'; therefore, the appointment of CLARKE to the living of Stratfield Mortimer by Eton as patron of the living was legal, inasmuch as HARPER was not a bishop in the Church of England the right of appointment to the living (vacated by HARPER on his elevation to the episcopate) had not passed to the Crown (see note 5, p296 Shaping a Colonial Church (2006:Christchurch)

1858 letters patent were modified: the bishop of Christchurch now subject as bishop-suffragan to the bishop of New Zealand as metropolitan [no longer was Sydney his metropolitan] while still under the jurisdiction of the see of Canterbury

Apr 1934 general synod deemed diocese Christchurch to have been constituted 31 Jul 1856 (69)

29 Dec 1893 biographical sketch The Press; 'his sweetness of disposition, his catholicity of feeling, and deep sympathy with all forms of distress wherever he met it, made himself beloved by all sections of the community … This feeling was not confined to the members of his own Church but was universal.. true type of a gentleman in the fullest sense of the word, kindly and courteous to all. .. Not was dearer to the heart of the late Bishop than the beautiful Cathedral service..
31 Dec 1893 'owing to the large number of persons wishing to see the body' removed to the Cathedral' … 'to lie in state there during the afternoon'… 'Several thousand people visited the Cathedral during the afternoon'
02 Jan 1894 funeral ceremony report The Press – pallbearers Sir John HALL, the Honourable CC BOWEN, Messrs A COX, BW MOUNTFORT, HP MURRAY-AYNSLEY, WH HARGREAVES (and RJS HARMAN); Bishops JULIUS and NEVILL, H WELLS organist of S Michael & All Angels presided, voluntaries an air by DVORAK and 'O rest in the Lord' [MENDELSSOHN]; and HANDEL's Dead march from SAUL; Archdeacon LINGARD chair of the Christchurch cemetery board was in charge at the cemetery but thus not available at the cathedral; detachment of Canterbury Engineers under Lieutenant McGee controlled crowds in the cathedral grounds, detachment of the Christ's College rifles under Colour-Sergeant Smith kept a space around the grave clear; a very long list of church and community leaders is provided in The Press report, and it noted among clergy of other churches that the RC vicar-general, two Presbyterians, two Wesleyan Methodists, and the Revd A CHODOWSKI Hebrew represented their people; Bishop JULIUS officiated for the graveside service, assisted by Archdeacon CHOLMONDELEY, the choir sang 'I heard a voice from heaven' [possibly that by John GOSS?] and hymn 401 'Now the labourer's task is o'er'; the final tribute was from Mr William ROSE farmer of Wakanui [nr Ashburton?] who came to New Zealand on the same ship as Bishop HARPER; a large proportion of those present filed past the grave to take a last look at the remains of the much loved and venerated Bishop. Several of the Kaiapoi Natives called at Bishop's Court on hearing of their beloved Bishop's death and were also present at the funeral' .. 'On a sloping pedestal draped with purple lay the coffin containing the mortal remains of Christchurch's first Bishop, attired in his Episcopal robes, with the arms folded as if for sleep … four lighted tapers placed in the different corners … coffin of polished kauri, the lid being raised to the shape of a cross, … brass plate .. Below was engraved a Bishop's Mitre. (see The Press)

In Black Beech and Honeydew, Dame Ngaio MARSH writes of him, remarkably handsome with the profile of a classic hero, voice deep and harsh, his manner abrupt and conversation rather like that of the Duke of Wellington as recorded by Mr Phillip Guedella though without the expletives; reminded her also of Mr Rochester, he habitually walked on the Cashmere Hills on Saturdays and called for tea with Ngaio's mother; he was also hotly pursued by members of a Ladies' Guild; (p70) anecdote about his taking the family joint to deliver to those in need in [probably, MWB] Ellesmere parish during a time of agricultural depression
