BLAIN BIOGRAPHICAL DIRECTORY

of Anglican clergy in the South Pacific

ordained before 1964,

editors: Michael Winston Blain & Robert Arthur Bruère

2027 edition

This is a voluntary database established by the Reverend Michael Blain in 1991.
From 1991 to 2021, Michael was responsible for compiling entries of clergy ordained before 1932.
He has been assisted by hundreds of correspondents and agencies over thirty years.
The Reverend Robert Bruère began assisting during Covid-2019.
In 2022 Robert took over managing the directory, adding people ordained from 1932.
Both are grateful to Christine Hickton for great assistance with genealogical details.
Thanks to the staff at Births, Deaths and Marriages, for checking possible errors in their data base.
Kinder Library has the New Zealand clerical directories on line as well as several diocesan year books and other publications which are very useful sources of information.
Thanks also to Lambeth Palace archives for supplying final clerical entries in Crockford's.

At the 1940 General Synod it was agreed to no longer publish clergy (by diocese) in its proceedings.
Instead a clerical directory with all dioceses together was published separately.
Publication of this has presently been suspended (since 2021/2022).

Work continues adding people ordained in the 1960's and enhancing earlier entries.
There are 2690 entries, most of those ordained before 1964 who have held a bishop's licence in NZ.
Some ordained later are also included, plus a few of special interest.

Information and enquiries can be sent to robertabruere27@gmail.com
Bracketed numbers at the end of lines indicate the range of sources, explained at

The first Anglican priest appointed in the South Pacific was the Reverend Richard JOHNSON.
He came in 1788 from England as chaplain to the settlement and penal colony of New South Wales.
His assistant and then successor, the Reverend Samuel MARSDEN, was responsible for establishing a Church Missionary Society settlement in New Zealand in 1814 with the support of Māori rangatira (chief), Ruatara. Initially clergy outside Britain were the responsibility of the Bishop of London which explains many being ordained by him. In 1825 Archdeacon SCOTT was responsible for Australia to the Bishop of Calcutta (now Kolkata). He was succeeded by WG BROUGHTON in 1829. After the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi in 1840, Bishop George Augustus SELWYN came as the first and only Anglican bishop of New Zealand.
Until the signing of the Anglican constitution in 1857, New Zealand was part of the Australasian church with its metropolitan William Grant BROUGHTON, bishop of Australia in 1836, then bishop of Sydney with bishops of Tasmania (1842), Melbourne (1847), Adelaide (1847) and Newcastle (1847). It wasn't until 1959 the church in Australia had its own constitution and it became autonomous in 1962.
By accident or design Melanesia was part of Bishop SELWYN's charge.
(This was well documented by Bishop Herbert WILLIAMS and Archdeacon John SIMKIN in their 1932 Commission Report to the General Synod)
In 1975 the diocese of Melanesia became an independent province.

The Church Missionary Society did not send missionaries to the territory of the LMS (London Missionary Society) in the Pacific. With the arrival of Indians and Melanesians to work in the Fijian sugar plantations, their governor requested Anglican ministry to them and hence began the ministry of Archdeacon FLOYD.
The diocese of Polynesia later became part of the Church in Aotearoa New Zealand.

A project to record all clergy ordained before 31 Dec 1961 in Australia, when it became autocephalous (had its own head), was begun by Dr Kenneth John Cable (1929-2003), then assisted by the Revd Noel Pollard (1929-1999) and Ken's wife Leonie Cable. Michael Blain helped greatly by transcribing their card system to a word document. Leonie continued to expand Cable Clerical Index.
In 2025 Leonie asked Christine Hickton to take responsibility for Cable Clerical Index.
There is considerable and enjoyable collaboration across "The Ditch" (Tasman Sea).
The Cable Clerical Index can be found at

FURTHER NOTE ON SOURCES

Some information comes from family trees and other material now posted on the internet which wasn't the case when this data base was begun. Where there are major references to a source - it is quoted. Where there is a variance with a source such as New Zealand Births, Deaths and Marriages or findagrave it is noted. Births, Deaths and Marriages have been very good in checking if there has been a transcription error, but they are required to retain the original record, where a mistake may have been made.

Note a Revd John ALLEN was invited to become a government inspector for the National schools; he sought advice from his 'ordaining bishop'*, C J BLOMFIELD of London, who reluctantly allowed him to accept appointment – it is not clear whether this is the same John ALLEN who is the subject of this biography. Other

'Phoebe Allen GRIDIRON' was the nom-de-plume of his daughter Phoebe (born 1850 Litchfield Hampshire died 1933; of Finchcox Kilndown Staplehurst, and of Hinton Martel vicarage in 1876), member of the Gosling Society (with Charlotte YONGE) and writer of 45 novels, and stories for SPCK (internet)

Note: the Revd James Craigie ROBERTSON was chaplain (1845-1848) to the Duke of BUCCLEUCH at Dalkeith, and from 1846 was vicar Bekesbourne Kent where John Collins ALLEN was curate from 1841. The Duke of BUCCLEUCH was a member of the Canterbury Association and a supporter of Ritualists. There may well be a link between these people, certainly sufficient for ALLEN to take a financial interest in Canterbury. (316;311)

Note: *Sir Thomas TANCRED (born 16 Aug 1808 died Oct 1880 Napier) 7th baronet had poor sight and peculiar habits; mistaking a sunflower at the window for a man looking in, he fired a gun at it. On his leaving Lyttelton to go north, Charlotte GODLEY (the wife of John Robert GODLEY co-founder of Canterbury) noted, 'Nobody misses the TANCREDs' (13)

[Note on Tabernacles

Dec 1932 in Auckland SOUTHERN CROSS V sold; the altar and reredos were installed in the new MY SOUTHERN CROSS VI which was then lost on its maiden voyage; chapel oak timbers and other items were saved for S Thomas Freemans Bay: Archdeacon SIMKIN refused the necessary faculty for installation of anything until the clergy ALLERTON and VOKES-DUDGEON had been paid their stipends.

21 May 1934 at the invitation of Fr ALLERTON and with the agreement of AVERILL bishop of Auckland, WH BADDELEY bishop of Melanesia in Auckland for the general synod, dedicated new Lady chapel S Thomas Freemans Bay – including the oak altar, a tabernacle, sanctuary lamp, and sacring bell. On learning of all these further installations, all now successfully included under that dedication but without the individual formal approval of the bishop's faculty, AVERILL tried to forbid the use of the tabernacle and the bell; AVERILL inhibited all priests from saying mass at S Thomas and the parish priest Fr ALLERTON from saying mass at any altar but that in S Thomas until the tabernacle was removed from its normal place on the altar to become an aumbry in the north-wall of the chapel. The ban on Fr ALLERTON was subsequently lifted on this being done. (website S Matthew Auckland accessed Mar 2009)

For a minor but similar incident, see the entries for WARREN, ALWYN KEITH, and GAULT, CECIL.

c1976 a tabernacle was installed in the south wall of the sanctuary of S Barnabas Roseneath Wellington; the bishop of Wellington EK NORMAN allowed the tabernacle to remain (and with a faculty) only on condition that I did not have it set upon the altar. The British High Commissioner Sir Richard STRATTON expressed to the bishop his surprise at this restriction, for he had never worshipped in London at a church which did not have the tabernacle on the high altar. He specifically referred to his London parish church S Augustine Queen's Gate (MWB)]

1973 warden College of S John Evangelist Auckland
Stories of a huge book collection coming in shipping containers to college were still alive when I entered S John's in 1976.
He was appointed late in 1971, over 12 months later when he took up the position, Methodists had joined the college.
Nothing about this was written into his appointment. (he wasn't consulted)
He assumed to be warden to them as well as the Anglican students and staff.
After a special meeting of the Board of Governors on 15 Oct 1973 it was agreed "to terminate the contract between them."
A very sad episode. RAB

Appointment of successor to MOLYNEUX:
Apr 1932 A E CORNER general secretary (English) Melanesian Mission informed Cosmo Gordon LANG abp of Canterbury that his English committee wanted BADDELEY to succeed MOLYNEUX (should the mission staff fail to elect one of themselves), though he was aware the New Zealand bishops might be annoyed at such an intrusive action by Canterbury
03 May 1932 LANG wrote to AVERILL abp of New Zealand to recommend BADDELEY, excusing his intrusion by noting the 'effects of the shock' surrounding MOLYNEUX's resignation; LANG commended BADDELEY's war record and his work in Yorkshire - BADDELEY mentioned to LANG that he had earlier declined the invitation from MOLYNEUX to be his assistant bishop but was willing to go as bishop now, and confidentially he had been informed of the cause of the present vacancy (280)
May 1932 NC CHRISTOPHERSON (AngloCatholic) archdeacon of Colombo nominated in Melanesia by a group of English clergy to be bishop of Melanesia, but vetoed in New Zealand possibly because the New Zealand leadership feared prejudice against perceived AngloCatholics would limit the generosity of New Zealand fund-providers for the Melanesian Mission; FOX was asked if he would like to be the bishop but declined:
06 Jul 1932 at the provincial synod by the New Zealand bishops and with representatives of the diocese of Melanesia, appointed bishop of Melanesia (vice MOLYNEUX 'nervous breakdown'; and came out to be consecrated in New Zealand not England in accordance with the firmly-expressed preference of the New Zealand bishops (280;69)]

early 1934 baptised 171 at WIEDEMANN's mission Kauptimete (a group of four islands); the bishop negotiated with the colonial administration for new sites for the Mission to evangelise, particularly Passage Man-o-War [Passis Manua]; FR BISHOP was commended at Rabaul for work among Europeans, the layman WGG WIEDEMANN at Kauptimete; BRADLEY the chaplain at Wau returning to Australia; he wanted priests for Salamau and Lae for ministry among whites; development of the Mandated Territory would certainly need its own diocesan bishop and structure, but pro tempore he appointed De VOIL as 'archdeacon for New Britain and the Goldfields' or 'for the archdeaconry of Northern Melanesia'; the money was available for a new schooner (CECIL WILSON) but the Australian church had shown its inability to finance a bishopric or proper mission in the Mandated Territory; V SHERWIN was due back from leave and with him coming one recruit from England KP FitzGERALD; with the Revd H THOMPSON soon to arrive from the diocese New Guinea and a Mr McLEOD (who had training at Maravovo and Maka Solomon Islands) from Rabaul, returned via Salamoa to Tulagi [colonial administration headquarters] in the Solomon Islands (261;412)(261)

21 May 1934 at the request of the Revd Arthur Russell ALLERTON vicar and with agreement of AVERILL bishop of Auckland he dedicated the renewed Lady chapel of S Thomas Freemans Bay Auckland, with its enhancements from the local sale of the MY SOUTHERN CROSS V; on learning that this dedication had included a tabernacle on the new oak altar, a sanctuary lamp, and a sacring bell, the archbishop put Fr ALLERTON under the ban and he was unable to say mass other than at S Thomas (and no other priest could say mass at S Thomas) until the tabernacle was moved into the north wall of the chapel as an aumbry and he undertook not to use the sacring bell (website S Matthew Auckland Mar 2009; see also WARREN, Alwyn Keith for a parallel tale)

New Zealand General Synod and Melanesia
1. That in the opinion of this synod the work on the mainland of New Guinea, including the Chaplaincy to the Goldfields, is the responsibility and should be accepted by the New Guinea Mission.
2. That so far as this synod has power to do so, it approves of the action of the Melanesian Mission in pressing on with the work in the islands of the Mandated Territory and records its appreciation of the efforts made by the bishop and those working with him – these amounted to instructions to leave mainland New Guinea (SHERWIN and goldfields Wau) to the diocese of New Guinea, while supporting ministry in New Britain. This synod approved the formal transfer of Norfolk Island parish from the diocese of Melanesia to the diocese of Sydney NSW Australia

05 Aug 1938 in Sydney, NSW: episcopal jurisdiction over Norfolk Island was assigned (in 1836) to the bishop of Australia, and (1841) to the bishop of New Zealand, and shortly afterwards to the bishop of Tasmania, reverting (1855) to the bishop of New Zealand and subsequently exercised by the bishop of Melanesia; (1937) the general synod of the province of New Zealand authorised the primate of New Zealand to take the necessary steps for the transfer of the ecclesiastical control of Norfolk Island (then in the diocese of Melanesia) to the diocese of Sydney: the Melanesian Mission trust board was authorised to transfer the properties belonging to the Mission in Norfolk Island to the diocese of Sydney; on his own behalf and his successors as bishops of Melanesia BADDELEY as bishop agreed for this surrender to Howard MOWLL the archbishop of Sydney; MOWLL ('Howard Sydney') as archbishop of Sydney and BADDELEY (+ Walter Melanesia') as bishop of Melanesia signed the document, (witnesses R R ROBINSON and Alfred PEEL) and it was registered by S JOHNSTONE as the Sydney diocesan registrar

1868 deacon Jamaica (Aubrey George SPENCER) for Exeter (Henry PHILLPOTTS);
[Curious note: Henry PHILLPOTTS the long-time bishop of Exeter (from 1830 to 1869) was aged 90 and near death and not able to manage an ordination and would have sought another ordaining bishop for this ordination; Aubrey George SPENCER was in office as bishop of Jamaica but in poor health retired from his post in 1855 to healthy Torquay in the diocese of Exeter; he did on occasion assist the frail bishop of Exeter. I also note that Reginald COURTENAY of the Exeter COURTENAY family had been bishop-coadjutor of Jamaica from 1856 and diocesan bishop only from the death of SPENCER on 24 Feb 1872. Thus, although COURTENAY did the work in Jamaica, SPENCER was the bishop of Jamaica until his death. (MWB)]

Other

1880 8th general synod Christchurch declined a request for a bishop for Māori
1925 the North Island bishops refused to consecrate a Māori bishop for the newly legislated 'diocese of Aotearoa'.
1928 he was consecrated as the first Māori bishop, but under a compromise whereby he was not a diocesan bishop in status but made a suffragan (assistant) bishop to the bishop of Waiapū. [This is readily recognisable as a racist or anti-Māori compromise, but the decision also embodies the principle that there can be only one episcopal jurisdiction in any region.]

Note on Vereker:

Vereker is the family name of the Viscounts Gort of Ireland (named after a town in County Galway). The title, in the peerage of Ireland, was created in 1816 and the second Viscount was Charles Vereker, a nephew of the first. A young woman named Sarah Elizabeth Vereker married Royal Navy officer John Read Bindon in 1806, thus bringing the name 'Vereker' into the Bindon family. The couple gave it to William Francis Vereker Bindon and others in their family. It stuck as a given name. Today, the 9th Viscount Vereker, one Foley Vereker, lives on the Isle of Mann (sic Man). In New Zealand William Henry Bindon, mentioned above, changed his surname to the impressive Vereker-Bindon before his death and descendants in the Waikato and Auckland carry that hyphenated name today. However, the many offspring of one of William Henry's uncles, who emigrated from Ireland in 1866 and settled in the Bay of Islands and other parts of Northland, retain the simple surname, Bindon. They have often used Vereker as a given name.

Their missions in Auckland diocese included weeks: Mt Albert, Onehunga, Helensville, Dargaville and Aratopa, North Shore, Parnel S Mary, Remuera S Mark, Cambridge, Hamilton, Te Aroha, The Thames, Holy Sepulchre, The Epiphany, S Paul Auckland.
Archdeacon George MAUNSELL, a leading Orange lodge member, attacked them and their work in long anonymous letters published in the New Zealand Herald. This soured their five months in Auckland diocese; but did not hinder their diocesan-wide work in Christchurch diocese.
HARPER summed up that the strongest result from their missions was the encouragement to the local clergy. (See BODINGTON's scrapbook of the New Zealand missions, fMS-020 ATL)

Note: this family was early affected by the Oxford movement, to the extent that several family members became Roman Catholics. Thomas himself was markedly AngloCatholic but remained Anglican.
1842 his brother Henry BOWLES died, previously at Oriel College Oxford and a follower of JH NEWMAN
1843 his sister Emily BOWLES (1818-c1904) author of Madame de Maintenon, Auriel Selwode, became a Roman Catholic and a religious; she lived near the EYSTON family, at East Hendred in Berkshire; her conversion was urged by Lady ACTON, mother of the cardinal.
1845 his brother the Revd Frederick Selwood BOWLES (1818-1900) Fellow of Exeter College Oxford, and an early student at Chichester theological college, and an Anglican deacon at Littlemore (from Dec 1842) with JH NEWMAN became a Roman Catholic; in 1847 he was ordained a Roman priest in Rome and returned to join the Brompton Oratory (under Frederick FABER a converted Anglican and sentimental poet, known as 'Water-Lily' at Oxford) in London; a melancholic he served as a priest on the Isle of Wight, and for twenty years as chaplain to the Dominican convent at Harrow Middlesex
1851 the eldest brother John Samuel BOWLES married (ii) Mary Wintle GILBERT daughter of the bishop of Chichester (1842-1870) - with the family of his daughter-in-law so affected, it is no wonder that GILBERT as bishop of Chichester although himself an High churchman was uneasy about Romanising Ritualists, notably JM NEALE a priest in the diocese of Chichester whom he inhibited from ministry. (MWB)
1892 his sister Alice BOWLES became a Roman Catholic (346)

24 May 1864 full report of case in Chancery court: Sir Thomas MOSTYN of Mostyn Hall Flintshire and other properties left his estate to his niece's husband Sir Edward Pryce LLOYD (1768-1854) of Pengwern Flintshire, (1831) 1st Baron MOSTYN. But when he died in 1831 the debts were heavy and the property not able to meet the financial commitments of the will; his natural daughter was Eliza MOSTYN, and on her marriage or attaining her majority (21) she was to have received £20 000 from the estate.
However on her marriage to Charles Clement BROOKE in Jun 1840, the money was not there for her to receive it from Baron MOSTYN the successor to her natural father Sir Thomas MOSTYN.
The only son of her marriage to BROOKE was Charles Hyde BROOKE: agreements were made in his infancy so that he would on the death of her father Sir Thomas MOSTYN he was himself to inherit his mother's legacy.
However, at her death in 1845 Edward Pryce LLOYD 1st Baron MOSTYN and his relatives declared that no money was available to meet these commitments to him Charles Hyde BROOKE.
Charles Hyde BROOKE began proceedings against Edward, 2nd Baron MOSTYN and his eldest son Thomas MOSTYN (1830-1861). Judgement went against Charles Hyde BROOKE not because the claim was unjust but because the funds were not there to fulfil its conditions.
22 Nov 1864 BROOKE appealed the decision which had rejected his claim, arguing that the late Edward (ne Pryce LLOYD) Baron MOSTYN and his son Thomas MOSTYN had concealed the evidence and withheld documents. The judge agreed that might well be so, but nevertheless the funds were lacking with which to pay Charles Hyde BROOKE. (411)
