COMMERCIAL EXHIBITS

Our Commercial Exhibits are located in the Auditorium-Armory Annex, Courtland Street between Gilmer Street and Warren Place.

The Commercial Exhibits have a real scientific value and physicians who wish to keep abreast of the times and know the latest in drugs and medical appliances should spend some time with these exhibits. It will be surprising the great amount of useful information that can be procured at these exhibits. Many have nothing for sale, the representatives of the firms being there to give the latest information regarding their products. Those who have items for sale will gladly give information whether there is a purchase or not. Be sure to visit the Commercial Exhibits. List of firms who have exhibits on page 80.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS

Registration, Information, Mail, Etc.

Auditorium-Armory Annex

Wednesday, November 17, 9:00 a. m.

1. Chairman's Address: "Common Sense and Infant Feeding," Alfred A. Walker, Birmingham, Ala.
2. "Intraperitoneal Transfusion of Blood in Infancy and Childhood" (Lantern Slides), Clifford G. Grulee, Chicago, Ill.
3. "Transfusion in Infancy," James W. Bruce, Louisville, Ky.

Citrate transfusions are more practical in infancy because of the ease of performance. Proper transfusion methods. Intraperitoneal injection of blood. Indications for transfusions.

Discussion opened by A. J. Waring, Savannah, Ga.; W. L. Funkhouser, Atlanta, Ga.; Eugene A. Rosamond, Memphis, Tenn.

4. "Effect of Blood Transfusion in Certain Streptococcus Infections," Frank C. Neff, Kansas City, Mo.

Report of four cases of sepsis treated by citrated blood. Three of these were erysipelas of early infancy, and one was streptococemia following chickenpox. Thus far no treatment has been proven curative for this type of infection in early life. The results in these desperately sick infants are briefly narrated and the principles of the treatment discussed.

Discussion opened by Lawrence T. Royster, University, Va.; Benjamin Bashinski, Macon, Georgia.

5. "Mastoid Infections in Infancy," J. Buren Sidbury, Wilmington, N. C.

Streptococcus infection in the mastoid antrum may produce a definite clinical picture of extreme toxemia, anhydremia with vomiting and diarrhea, with very few local signs of mastoiditis. Early drainage of mastoid antrum offers the best chance of recovery. Cooperation between the otologist and pediatricist essential. Vigorous medical treatment both before and after operation necessary in the successful treatment of these cases.

Discussion opened by McKim Marriott, St. Louis, Mo.; L. R. Debuys, New Orleans, La.

24 Program Southern Medical Association

6. "The Early Diagnosis of Tuberculosis in Children as a Means of Controlling the Disease" (Lantern Slides), Horton C. Casparis, Nashville, Tenn.

A discussion of the diagnostic procedures and the dissemination of tuberculosis.

Discussion opened by W. S. Leathers, Nashville, Tenn.; Oliver Hill, Knoxville, Tenn.

Wednesday, November 17, 7:00 p. m.

Pediatric Section Entertainment. Details Announced in Section.

Thursday, November 18, 9:00 a. m.

7. "Rickets and Subsequent Dwarfism Associated with Renal Disease, Report of a Case" (Lantern Slides), D. C. Wharton Smith, Baltimore, Md.

The case reported presents a very striking picture of the so termed "Renal Dwarfism" as described originally by Barbour, Patterson, and others in the English literature. The laboratory findings and radiographic studies tend to classify this case between the findings usually seen in rickets in children and osteomalacia in adults.

Discussion opened by J. H. Mason Knox, Baltimore, Md.; Wilbert C. Davison, Baltimore, Maryland.

8. "Familial Syphilis," Chas. C. Dennie, Kansas City, Mo.

The time in which congenital syphilis appears in the infant, the type of lesions and organs involved have some relation to the manifestation of the disease in the parents. The effect of the disease in the offspring of succeeding pregnancies of a syphilitic mother is discussed. The treatment of the pregnant syphilitic women at various stages of pregnancy and its effect on the child.

Discussion opened by Joseph Yampolsky, Atlanta, Ga.

9. "Pellagra in Infancy and Childhood in the United States," Chas. J. Bloom, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Peculiarities of the disease in childhood, etiology, incidence and distribution.

Discussion opened by William Weston, Columbia, S. C.; J. Ross Snyder, Birmingham, Ala.; D. Lesesne Smith, Spartanburg, S. C.

10. "Acute Poliomyelitis," R. M. Pollitzer, Greenville, S. C.

The history of acute poliomyelitis in the United States is briefly reviewed. The landmarks in the experimental and investigative study of the disease are mentioned. Next the known etiological factors are discussed. The symptomatology and the diagnostic criteria are then exhibited. Our present-day unsatisfactory therapy is admitted; and finally some case histories summarized.

Discussion opened by W. L. Funkhouser, Atlanta, Ga.; Wm. A. Mulherin, Augusta, Ga.

11. "Cereal Foods, Their Advantages and Dangers,"
William Weston, Columbia, S. C.

Brief historical sketch. Used by ancients. Their use universal. Exalted by Greeks and Romans. Choice upon basis of protein. Mineral and vitamin content. How they supplement and compensate each other's deficiencies. Conditions of cultivation reflected in content. Dangers of highly milled cereals.

Discussion opened by J. D. Love, Jacksonville, Fla.; J. H. Park, Houston, Tex.

4. "Hemangiomas and Their Treatment by Injections of Boiling Water" (Lantern Slides), Francis Reder, St. Louis, Mo.

An angioma is a vascular tumor. There are two types of these tumors amenable to successful treatment by the injection of boiling water as originated by Dr. John A. Wyeth, the cavernous and the plexiform type. The procedure, with due precaution, is surprisingly free from disaster. The course is usually an afebrile one. There is very little if any pain. No disfigurement results. After restitution the structures again resume their normal appearance.

Discussion opened by Robert L. Rhodes, Augusta, Ga.; F. Webb Griffith, Asheville, N. C.

5. "Superior Sympathectomy in Angina Pectoris" Harry Hyland Kerr, Washington, D. C.

The surgical treatment of angina pectoris is now well established. The discussion of the different types of the disease, its difference from thrombosis as well as the different therapeutic measures, is now in order. From a study of the literature and personal experience, the writer believes that superior cervical sympathectomy under local anesthesia, gives as good results as the more elaborate and more formidable procedures. Case reports.

6. "Review of Over Two Thousand Fractures, Treated at the Newell Clinic During the Past Seven Years" (Lantern Slides), E. Dunbar Newell, Chattanooga, Tenn.

(1) The large number of fractures with only one case of nonunion. (2) The very few cases that have required open operations to get functional and cosmetic results. (3) Where open operations have been done, no attempt has been made to carry out the absurd "no touch" technique, but a studied effort has been made not to interfere with blood supply to the broken fragments.

Discussion opened by Willis Campbell, Memphis, Tenn.; E. Denegre Martin, New Orleans, Louisiana.

7. "Vaginal Hernias, with a Method for Their Cure When Associated with Prolapsus Uteri" (Lantern Slides), J. M. Hundley, Jr., Baltimore, Md.

Review of the literature. Tabulation of case reports up to the present time. Anatomy and etiology of the condition. A procedure for the repair of vaginal hernias associated with procedentia. Results of four cases.

Discussion opened by Geo. T. Tyler, Jr., Greenville, S. C.; E. C. Davis, Atlanta, Ga.

8. "Experimental Study of Cholecystogastrostomy and Cholecystoduodenostomy" (Lantern Slides), J. S. Horsley, Jr., Richmond, Va.

Experiments were performed on eighteen dogs to compare the relative merits of cholecystogastrostomy and cholecystoduodenostomy, and to determine the effects of each on the gall bladder, bile ducts and liver. Following operations of both types definite infection and pathology of gall bladders, bile ducts and livers were found. Cholecystoduodenostomy was attended by a much higher mortality.

Discussion opened by Evarts A. Graham, St. Louis, Mo.; Hermann B. Gessner, New Orleans, La.

9. "Cholecystogastrostomy" (Lantern Slides), F. G. Dubose, Selma, Ala.

Technique. Rubber tube anastomosis and direct anastomosis. Indications for each. Cholecystogastrostomy's place as the operation of choice. Advantages over either cholecystectomy or cholecystostomy. At times each procedure has a definite place in surgery. Immediate and end results.

Discussion opened by LeGrand Guerry, Columbia, S. C.; Floyd W. McRae, Atlanta, Ga.

10. "Critical Factors in the Surgery of the Gall Bladder and Ducts," George W. Crile, Cleveland, O.

Methods whereby patient may be protected against certain factors which contribute to unfavorable end-results of operations upon the gall bladder and ducts. Choice of operation, technic, methods of drainage, pre- and post-operative management, importance of conservation of function of liver. Experimental evidence of the direct relation of liver temperature to general condition of patient, importance of application of diathermy to liver during and after operation.

Discussion opened by J. Shelton Horsley, Richmond, Va.; Dean Lewis, Baltimore, Md.

11. "Report of a Case of Madura Foot in a Georgia Negro," Charles C. Harrold, Macon, Ga.

Case is exhibited solely on account of its rarity and with the belief that more cases exist than is generally believed. Case was not diagnosed properly by me until after I did a partial amputation thinking that I had a tubercular process. Negro has persistently refused total amputation.

Discussion opened by R. S. Leadingham, Atlanta, Ga.; T. C. Davison, Atlanta, Ga.

12. "Hyperthyroidism and Its Relation to Benign Tumors of the Thyroid Gland" (Lantern Slides), William F. Rienhoff, Jr., Baltimore, Maryland.

Benign tumors of thyroid formed during involution and regression following physiological or pathological hypertrophy and hyperplasia of gland. These tumors are the result, not the cause, of hyperthyroidism. True parenchymatous adenomata occur in the thyroid coincident with hyperthyroidism, but play no role in the production of the disease.

7. "The Noises of Civilization and Their Effect Upon the Ears," Walter A. Wells, Washington, D. C.

Sounds of nature for the most part pleasing, constituting in a measure basis for melodies of music. With civilization comes the unnatural noises of the machinery of warfare, transportation and industries, displeasing to the ear and injurious. In the present highly mechanical age noises so predominate, they have become a habit and constitute ever a requisite part of our means of amusement. The limits of auditory capacity and sensitiveness; auditory fatigue. Deafness regularly observed among workers in certain noisy occupations. Histological changes found in organs of Corti from exposure of animals to shrill high-pitched sounds. Practical consideration with regard to protection of the ears from injury through intense sounds and noises.

10. "Five Years' Experience with the Halle Operation for Atrophic Rhinitis" (Lantern Slides), A. J. Lorie, Kansas City, Mo.

After five years of treatment of atrophic rhinitis, by means of the Halle operation, we find that in all, thirty cases have been under observation for from two to five years, and the results, while not perfect, are infinitely better than can be obtained by any other means. The best result obtained was a remarkable freedom from odor in 86% of our cases. This in itself is an excuse for the operation. Freedom from crusting, while markedly improved, does not give the same high percentage. The complications are few and the danger slight. Thirty per cent of these cases had accompanying sinus disease: 100% negative Wasserman. We feel that the results were sufficiently good to warrant continuing the work.

12. "The Incidence of Sinus Diseases Among Children of the Gulf Coast," Charles A. McWilliams, Gulfport, Miss.

During the discussion of various papers dealing with sinus disease in children read before our national societies the claim has been made that sinus disease is rare in the eastern states and common in the upper Mississippi Valley. From my experience it is common in the lower Mississippi Valley and along the Gulf Coast if one is alert and examines the sinuses of every child.

14. "The Inferior Laryngeal Nerves and Their Relation to the Thyroid Gland" (Lantern Slides), Homer Dupuy, New Orleans, La.

Is the laryngeal neuro-muscular apparatus innervated by opposed sets of nerve fibres? Left inferior laryngeal more frequently subject to pathologic pressure. More frequently injured in thyroidectomy, aortic aneurism, mediastinal tumors, thyroid gland hypertrophies, may be pressure factors. Pressure from whatever cause leads first to abductor paralysis, some dyspnoea but no dysphonia at this stage. Laryngoscopy an invaluable aid in diagnosing extra-laryngeal morbid conditions.

Discussion opened by Sidney Israel, Houston, Tex.; Arthur Weil, New Orleans, La.; Urban Maes, New Orleans, La.

15. "Congenital Atresia of the Esophagus" (Demonstration of Specimen), Edwin N. Broyles, Baltimore, Md.

Congenital atresia of the esophagus is of fairly frequent occurrence and many cases have been reported. So far, no case has survived and the interest in the condition is centered primarily around the etiology. The diagnosis is fairly simple. Nearly all cases of congenital atresia occur in the middle portion of the esophagus, and most of these are associated with a trachea-esophageal fistula. A specimen of this common form will be demonstrated.

18. "The Advantage of Local Tonsillectomies in Adults," J. C. MacDonald, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Tonsillectomy under local anesthesia with the La Force instrument is the operation of choice in most adults. It eliminates the post operative nausea and vomiting, post operative ether pneumonias and there is less shock and bleeding. The patient is incapacitated for a shorter period of time. The LaForce technique allows a rapid and complete removal of tonsils which is very desirable in local tonsillectomies. The block and infiltration method of anesthesia induction gives more complete anesthesia. It is necessary to gain the confidence of your patient and assure them that the tonsils will not be removed until sensation is completely deadened. The butyn solution used to control pharyngeal reflexes in place of cocaine because of its freedom from toxic reactions.

Discussion opened by Eugene Dixon, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Frank Boyd, Fort Worth, Tex.

19. "Some Essentials in the Satisfactory Use of Local Anesthesia," B. H. Minchew, Waycross, Ga.

Definite technic of administration of local anesthesia must be employed, using an amount sufficient to obtain freedom from pain. The surgeon must have a temperament to meet the requirements of the patient and the method employed. Employment of local anesthesia must be constant and not on a limited number of cases. Exploratory surgery should not be attempted.

GOLF

The Druid Hills, East Lake and Brookhaven Golf courses will be open to visiting physicians. The handicap tournament will be played on the Druid Hills course and the tournament without handicap on the East Lake course. The Dallas Morning News cup will be the major trophy for the handicap tournament and the Washington Post cup for the tournament without handicap. In each tournament there will be other prizes offered for low gross and low net scores.

For ladies there will be a medal round on Tuesday forenoon at the East Lake course. Each lady entering will please present her home handicap.

The Golf Committee request that all who enter for the handicap or without handicap tournament finish their matches by noon Wednesday, if possible, as the courses are well crowded with regular members on Wednesday afternoon. At any event, both tournaments will close Wednesday evening in order that the Committee may have time to make up their reports. All who enter the handicap tournament be sure to present club handicap from local professional.

Physicians or ladies when they go to the different courses to play will wear their badges. Otherwise there may be some difficulty in getting on the course unless accompanied by a member of the club.

Dr. C. W. Strickler, 123 Forrest Avenue, N. E., Atlanta, is Chairman of the Golf Committee, and associated with him are Dr. L. W. Grove and Dr. P. L. Hudson. The Committee will be glad to be of service in any way they can to the visiting golfers.

TRAP SHOOTING TOURNAMENT

The first annual trap shooting tournament of the Southern Medical Association will be held under the auspices of the Peachtree Gun Club, Peachtree-Dunwoody Road, Atlanta, November 16, 1:00 p. m. Ample transportation facilities to the Club grounds will be provided; cars will leave the Henry Grady Hotel promptly at 12:30 on Tuesday. Dr. Herschel C. Crawford, 436 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, is Chairman of the Trap Shooting Committee.

Rules Governing Shoot

1. With the exception of the method used in classifying shooters, A. T. A. rules will govern this shoot.
2. Shooters will classify themselves in three classes—A, B and C. Owing to the lack of time and information, no attempt will be made to classify shooters prior to the beginning of the shoot, but each shooter will classify himself on the score he makes. The number of positions shot will be divided by three and the high one-third will constitute Class A, the second one-third will constitute Class B and the remaining one-third will constitute Class C. Any fraction in the division will be either added to or deducted from Class A. As an illustration: If there should be forty-three shooters finishing with scores ranging from 77 to 98, inclusive, without a skip, this would constitute 22 positions which, after dividing by 3 and adding the fraction to Class A, would make the first eight positions from 91 to 98, inclusive, in Class A. The next seven positions from 84 to 90, inclusive, in Class B. The remaining seven positions from 77 to 83, inclusive, in Class C.

3. Shooting will start promptly at 1 p. m., and it is essential that everyone be on time; otherwise the program cannot be finished before dark.

4. Referee will call dead or lost targets after each shot and his decision will be final.

5. The program will consist of 100 single targets, 16-yard rise and will not be registered.

6. All ties will be shot off on 25 targets.

	Targets	Entrance
Event 1.....	25	.75
Event 2.....	25	.75
Event 3.....	25	.75
Event 4.....	25	.75
	<hr/>	<hr/>
	100	$3.00

Targets trapped at three cents each, which is the above entrance fee.

Optionals.—$2.50 each event, total $10.00.

Money Division Rose System.—5-4-3-2 on each event.

Shells.—Federal (Favorite) Standard trap loads will be sold on the grounds at eighty-five cents per box.

Trophies

High gun, or winner of the singles championship, of the Southern Medical Association will be awarded a leg on the beautiful Atlanta Journal bowl. This cup has been donated by the Atlanta Journal and is to be shot for each year during the annual convention of the Southern Medical Association and shall become the property of the first shooter winning it three times. The shooter winning a leg on this cup at this shoot will be custodian of the cup until the 1927 shoot, at which time it will be put in competition and a leg awarded to the winner of the singles championship.

The winner and runner-up in Class A will each receive a silver trophy.

The winner and runner-up in Class B will each receive a silver trophy.

The winner and runner-up in Class C will each receive a silver trophy.

The Peachtree Gun Club has donated a silver trophy which will be awarded the low gun on the 100 16-yard targets.
