SMA President's Message and Welcome

J. Lorin Mason, Jr., M.D.

Welcome to New Orleans and Southern Medical Association's 92nd Annual Scientific Assembly. In keeping with the SMA tradition, this year's meeting will again prove to be an impressive and varied educational and social experience.

The theme chosen for this year's meeting, "Unity in Diversity," exemplifies our 28 sections coming together in the "unity" that is SMA, giving us our strength and unique character. The SMA staff, Coordinating Committee on Education, Advisory Committee on Scientific Activities, Specialty Section Officers, and the 1998 New Orleans Advisory Committee have worked extremely hard to develop an extensive educational schedule, offering over 300 credit hours from which to choose.

As always, SMA's main focus is "to foster the art and science of medicine." In keeping with that focus the meeting agenda includes activities such as: multispecialty grand rounds, specialty section meetings, joint specialty section meetings, practice management courses, scientific/clinical symposia and conjoint society meetings. Over 150 educational sessions are being offered, providing attendees a wide variety of topics from which to choose.

A special thank you to Mrs. Deno (Gwen) Pappas, President of the Southern Medical Association Auxiliary, for all that she has done this year. Be sure to stop and shop at the Auxiliary Boutique in the Sheraton Hotel.

In addition to our educational activities, there are many outstanding social functions and general sessions planned which are sure to provide fun for families and friends. Friday evening, don't miss the "Masked Ball" at Mardi Gras World. During the Awards Luncheon on Saturday, the featured speaker will be Calvin Trillin, staff writer with The New Yorker. The Dinner Dance on Saturday night will again feature the Pink Flamingos, as well as a tribute to Southern Music, "Songs of the South." Enrichment, youth, recreational, and retirement/retiree programs have also been planned to make our meeting socially enjoyable to all.

The opportunities that this meeting provides for us, both academically and socially are tremendous. It has been an honor and a pleasure to serve as your President, and I thank you for that opportunity. I hope that you enjoy the meeting, and take home with you many fond memories as well as an invaluable educational experience.

92nd Annual Scientific Assembly
Purpose and Objectives

In keeping with the Southern Medical Association's mission, which is to develop and foster the art and science of medicine, the Scientific Assembly is the Association's premier annual educational activity. Dedicated to meeting the educational needs of the multi-specialty membership, the Assembly strives to develop and promote continuing medical education, with the ultimate goal of enhancing patient care.

The 92nd Annual Scientific Assembly of the Southern Medical Association will provide physicians the opportunity to update their medical knowledge and enhance their clinical skills by offering a multi-faceted curriculum of activities. The major objectives of the Annual Scientific Assembly are:

- To afford specialty physicians the opportunity to present research and clinical experience through the submission of abstracts and presentation of papers to the specialty sections;
- To afford primary and specialty physicians the opportunity to participate in peer-directed specialty sections and to interact in inter-disciplinary joint section meetings;
- To complement specialty section meetings with lectures presented by internationally known faculty;
- To complement specialty section meetings through presentation of scientific and clinical symposia, addressing current clinical concerns, presented by nationally recognized experts;
- To promote the role of residents and fellows in clinical research, by providing a forum for their submission and presentation of abstracts, and recognition of their contributions to the educational process;
- To address practical medical concerns and afford physicians the opportunity to exchange clinical information through interactive "Meet the Experts" discussions;
- To facilitate the sharing of clinical and research findings, encompassing new and emerging techniques, procedures, and results, through scientific poster presentations.

The Southern Medical Association is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians.

GRAND ROUNDS

CONTROVERSIAL DIAGNOSES 1998: PROSTATE CANCER

SESSION GR01

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1998
10:45 AM - 12:45 PM
Room 58

Moderators:
Durwood E. Neal, Jr., M.D., Springfield, IL and
Bernard F. Schneider, M.D., Charlottesville, VA

Discussants:
Kent Wallner, M.D., Seattle, WA
Raju Thomas, M.D., New Orleans, LA
Peter J. Kragel, M.D., Greenville, NC

Case #1 (history): A 57 year old white male presents with the following PSA History: 4.8 in 1994, 6.9 in 1995, 8.7 in 1996, 22.5 in 1997, and 17 in 1998. Prostate biopsies in 1993 and in 1995 were negative for malignancy. Because of his persistently elevated PSA his prostate was biopsied for a third time in 1998: again the left and right bases showed only inflammatory changes, but the right apex had a small focus of Gleason 6 adenocarcinoma. Bone scan showed no evidence of metastases. Recently the patient has had nocturia, but feels that it has improved substantially with Ciprofloxin. He has no other urinary symptoms. Past medical and surgical histories are unremarkable. Family history is significant for prostate cancer: his father underwent a radical prostatectomy at 67 years of age, and his paternal uncle had radiation therapy for prostate cancer at the age of eighty-one. The patient quit smoking when he was twenty-three years old, is in good general health, and currently works as a truck driver.

Discussion:
* Questions raised by negative biopsies and elevated PSA.
* Is there a PSA upper limit for local therapy only (ie prostatectomy or brachytherapy?)
* How does the presence of chronic inflammation affect treatment decision-making based on PSA value?
* What is the role of androgen suppression with surgery or brachytherapy?

Case #2 (history): In 1995 a 42 year old male, clinical laboratory technician, with microscopic hematuria underwent an IVP, which was normal. At that time he volunteered blood for PSA testing, and is aware that his PSA was in the 2 - 3 range. Two years later he found that his PSA had risen to 5. He consulted a urologist in November, 1997, who found the patient's prostate to be normal on DRE. However, transrectal ultrasound guided biopsy revealed a Gleason 6 adenocarcinoma in both the left and right lobes of the prostate.

Past medical history is unremarkable except for a L3 lumbar laminectomy in 1993. Family history is significant for a mother, who developed breast cancer at the age of seventy-two, and his mother's brother, who was diagnosed as having prostate cancer at the age of seventy-eight. The patient quit smoking in 1977, and is in excellent general health.

Discussion:
* Role of surgery versus radiation therapy in the younger patient with early stage prostate cancer.
* What are the treatment options for the patient with bilateral prostate cancer?
* Long-term complications associated with prostatectomy and prostate brachytherapy

Case #3 (history): This 69 year old white male had a PSA of 24 on routine screening in January, 1997. TRUS-guided biopsies were obtained, which revealed non-specific chronic inflammation, but no malignancy. At that time, on the advice of his daughter, the patient began taking daily doses of Sawpalmetto. On follow-up examination in February, 1998, his PSA was 14. Again on the advice of his daughter, he consulted another Urologist, who obtained repeat prostate biopsies, which showed a Gleason 7 adenocarcinoma in 80% of one core from the right base; other cores showed only inflammation. At this time on DRE a nodular ridge was palpable along the right, lateral gland.

Discussion:
* Is PSA a useful yardstick in patients taking 5-alpha-reductase inhibitors?
* How does Gleason Score affect treatment recommendations?
* What is the significance of palpable versus clinically undetectable prostate cancer?

SCIENTIFIC/CLINICAL SYMPOSIA

CLINICAL AND SCIENTIFIC SYMPOSIA

The tradition of medical excellence continues through the 92nd Annual Scientific Assembly of the Southern Medical Association. You can select among the many program offerings of the meeting to develop a comprehensive curriculum to meet your needs. An important part of the curriculum should be the Clinical and Scientific Symposia.

The special scientific symposia have been developed in response to new or emerging technologies and to needs expressed by our members. They have been scheduled to complement section and joint sessions to allow all interested physicians to attend. These programs are offered at no charge; however to assure adequate educational material and food service for participants, you are required to register for those you wish to attend. If you pre-registered, your tickets will be in your registration packet. If you register on site, tickets will be issued at registration. On-site tickets will be on a space available basis.
